

REPORT ON PARTICIPATION IN THE
FIRST CALL OF THE UNA4CAREER
POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS PROGRAMME

U4C

In this report, a detailed analysis of the participation data in the First Call of the UNA4CAREER postdoctoral fellowships programme is presented. The purpose of this call, on a competitive basis, is the incorporation of postdoctoral researchers into the research groups of the Universidad Complutense de Madrid (UCM) classified as “excellent”, for the development of 36-month research projects in any area of knowledge.

Aspects such as the number of applications received, their distribution among the 4 knowledge areas envisaged -Humanities, Social Sciences, Health and Experimental Sciences-, nationality, gender, age and reasons for exclusion of the non-eligible proposals, are analysed.

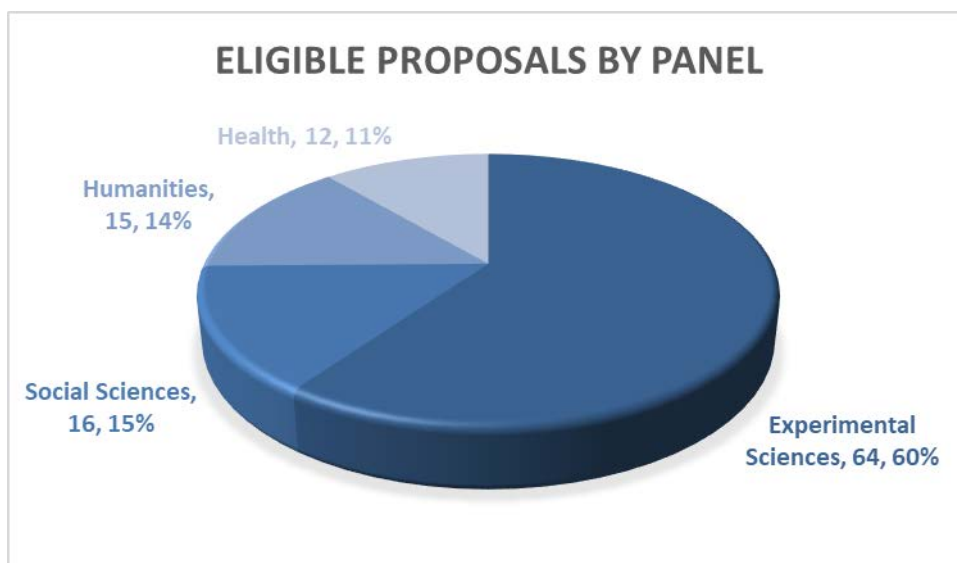

Total number of proposals submitted.

The total number of proposals submitted is 135. Of these, 107 (79%) meet the eligibility criteria and go on to the evaluation procedure, and 28 (21%) do not meet the eligibility criteria of the call.

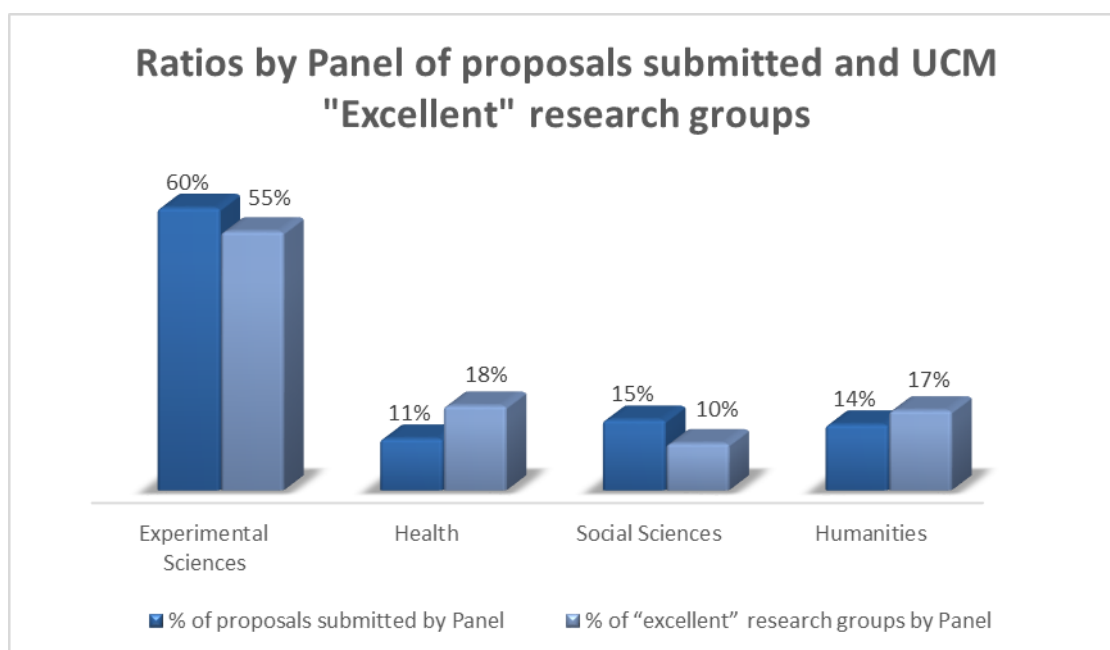

Eligible Proposals by Panel.

The total amount of proposals submitted, are organized into four scientific panels: Humanities, Social Sciences, Health and Experimental Sciences. 15 proposals (14%) have been received by the Humanities panel, 16 proposals (15%) have been received by the Social Sciences panel, 12 proposals (11%) have been received by the Health panel and 64 proposals (60%) have been received by the Experimental Sciences panel.

The number of proposals received in each panel is in line with the number of research groups per panel at the UCM that have been classified as "excellent" in the external evaluation done by the Spanish National Research Agency. At the UCM, "excellent" research groups in Humanities account for 17% of the total number of "excellent" groups, research groups in Social Sciences 10%, research groups in Health 18% and research groups in Experimental Sciences 55% of the total number of groups classified as "excellent".

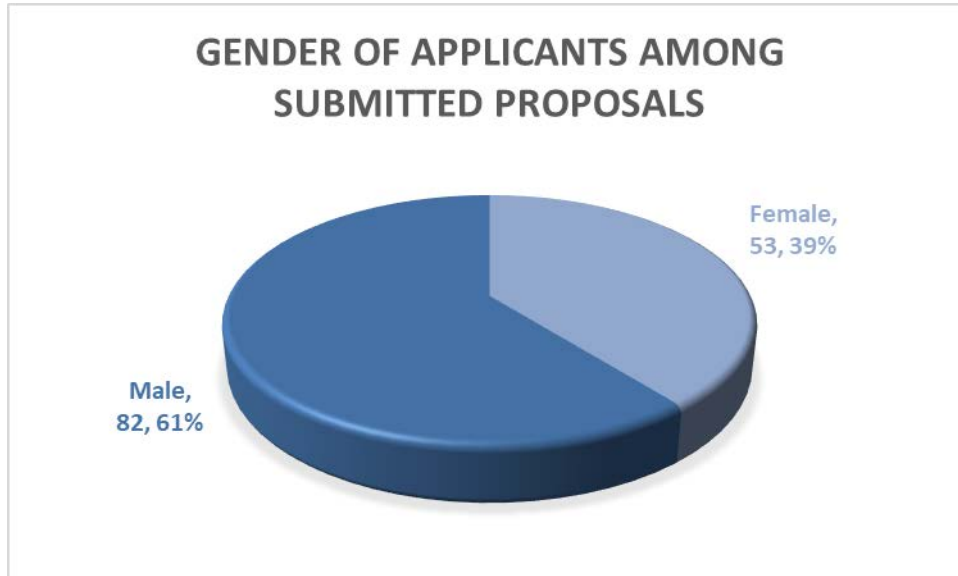

Nationality of applicants among submitted proposals.

People from 36 different nationalities have applied to the UNA4CAREER programme. The highest figure corresponds to Spanish nationality, which is because Spanish applicants find in these fellowships a good opportunity to come back to Spain after a postdoctoral phase abroad. India, Argentina and Italy are the following three countries with the largest number of candidates.

Gender of applicants among submitted proposals.

Of the 135 proposals submitted, 82 were from men and 53 from women. A ratio of 60% - 40% between men and women is established.

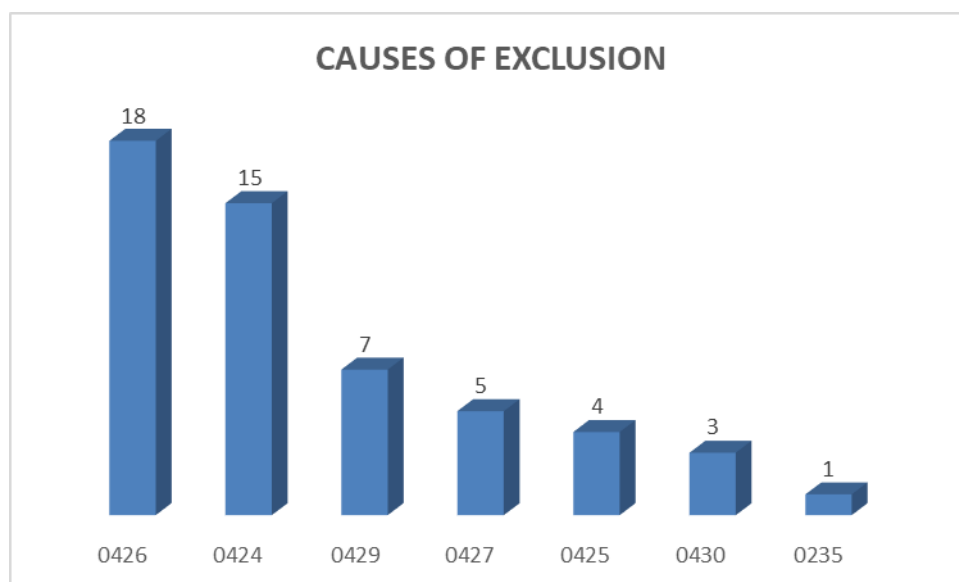

Age of applicants among submitted proposals.

The age range of the proposals received is between 27 and 62 years old, with the most common range being between 31 and 37 years.

Causes of exclusion.

The main reasons for exclusion were related to the technical proposal (code 0426) and the documentation presented in relation to the mobility criterion (code 0424). The third reason has been not signing the document of data veracity (code 0429).

0426	The Technical Proposal (Annex II) is not submitted using the official template provided / Page limits according to the template are not respected / Editing standards according to the template are not respected. Points 5.1 and 4.4.a.4 of the call.
